

THE SHANNON 53 HPS (HIGH POWER SAILER)

Ohana's Voyage from Portsmouth, VA to St. Petersburg FL

George left, Captain Bruce's chef, looks on at Walter's delivery crew

Walt Schultz, Ohana's Designer/Builder right goes over the boat's many systems with Captain Bruce Gregory before departure at Tidewater Marina in Portsmouth, VA

Ohana being photographed by Don Roman while onshore in Daytona

Photo 2 of 4 in Daytona taken by Don Roman

Photo 3 of 4 in Daytona taken by Don Roman

Photo 4 of 4 in Daytona taken by Don Roman
Without her rig she still looks great.

Here's Don Roman shooting photos of us shooting photos of him.

Waiting for the Great Bridge Lock, Virginia to fill

Such a nice day, Capt Bruce has moved to one of the aft pilot stations

Another view of Capt Bruce at the starboard cockpit pilot station

Underway in the ICW near the Virginia, North Carolina State Line

Overhead from Salon to Galley below and Chef George.

Capt Bruce caught at the NAV Station, w/ its beautiful cherry finish

At the dock in Wrightsville Beach, North Carolina for fuel

Her 18 foot beam is evident with this shot from the stern

Boat's Engineer, Al Hiller, takes a turn at piloting.

Another view looking aft from the bow.

It was an early calm as we departed Cape Fear River for The Atlantic

Lousy photo of A Right Whale and her calf about 60 miles offshore

Couldn't fit the entire boat in this frame, she is bigger than she looks

Capt Bruce w one of the several black fin tuna caught offshore

Chef George with the one we decided to keep for next day's lunch

Did I mention fresh tuna for lunch?

Honorable mention held by able mate Al Hiller, caught w surface lure

Here's Don Roman shooting photos of us shooting photos of him.